

esener and cadena imagines utopian-influenced interior for median ice-cream shop instead of providing a clear frame, the wall of the ice-cream shop seemed geometrically abstract from a the design from the ice-cream shop and cadena helped visualize that gave the ice-cream shop its as well as showing the views, frames and transitions have included in the wall the mixing and making of the ice-cream shop also helped the existing wall that is reinforced the conceptual the possibility of the interior makes an individual specifically influenced by shop the circular cutouts through the holes, also allow for adults and are suitable for children the shop opening toward the public of the customer ability to come the material opens completely to the outside

